Theo Murphy Initiative (Australia)

Adelaide Convention Centre

The Australian Academy of Science, through the Theo Murphy Initiative, is supporting an industry-researcher engagement event during the 2018 International Conference for Young Researchers on Advanced Materials (ICYRAM).

We would like to invite representatives from all startup companies and entrepreneurs with an interest in advanced materials and related fields to join us at the event. The evening will open unique opportunities to create meaningful connections with the future leaders of materials science, engineering and related disciplines.
