

The University of New Hampshire
IEEE Student Organization
November 29, 2021

To Whom It May Concern,

We are the University of New Hampshire's IEEE student branch. We are dedicated to exploring the electronics field beyond the classroom including, but not limited to, additional projects, lab visits, and presentations from companies outside of UNH. The goal of our group is to promote the growth of the future engineers of the world, and to speed the advancement of technology as well as increase general awareness of what is happening in the technological fields. Our primary focus is to connect students and faculty in the UNH Department of Electrical and Computer Engineering through both social and academic events.

This academic year (2021-2022), we would like to regrow our club and lay down a strong foundation for future members. We have been working with the UNH ECE Department, as well as the New Hampshire IEEE Section, to legitimize our student organization and increase our membership. We have already hosted social events, including a pizza day, movie night, and a T-shirt design contest. As we continue into the next semester, we wish to pursue larger events such as competitions, lab-tours, and industry presentations.

This is an invitation letter to all UNH Alumni IEEE members, and to all New Hampshire IEEE members as a whole, to reach out and meet the members of our organization. We would greatly appreciate connecting with and meeting current or past IEEE members who are willing to discuss and talk about their professional experiences. Hearing about how IEEE impacts the world outside what we do here at UNH is very valuable. Bridging the worlds of academics and real world profession gives students an important perspective on what real life jobs and experiences there are and what types of companies they may be interested in looking into. Students and alumni being able to communicate is a wonderful way to jump start students' understanding of post-graduate routes and get them involved in crucial skill building events while giving alumni a chance to assist the next generation of engineers.

The best method to get in contact with us is to email our current President, Owen McKenna (see below). We look forward to hearing from everyone!
