Description:

This is the second code contest being conducted by IEEE Computer Society chapter, Hyderabad section in association with IEEE Hyderabad section student activities committee. This is a 9 hours coding contest which starts at 9.00am in the morning and finished at 6.00 pm in the evening. We planned this contest on Code Chef plat form which is a hub for competitive programming.

When there were 3 days left for the start of the contest i.e. on 11th may 2020 we had 500+ registrations and we were counting by the next day i.e. on 12th may we had around 600+ registrations and then a day before the contest we had around 1007 registrations, but on the day of the contest we had a huge count of 1600+ registrations before the start of the contest.

As mentioned the contest started sharply at 9.00 am all the coders were so enthusiastic and interested as well as so keen in solving the problems given to them because the leaderboard of the contest kept on fluctuating every coder tried their best to be on the top of the leader board

There were different levels in code chef while solving the problems as our aim is list out the top coders who can challenge and solve different level problems.

We have even formed a Telegram group and been in connection with all the participants, and resolving the issues if they had any with the platform provided.

This code contest have created a very healthy and challenging atmosphere to all the coders and enhanced their skill in coding and the leader board analysis was always an enthusiastic work to be done as the struggle and will of the coders is clearly seen in the leaderboard.
