Montana State University
MSU Foundation Great Room
11th and Lincoln
Dinner at 6:30 PM

Keynote Speaker:

Klein Gilhousen
Co-founder; Senior Vice President, Technology, Qualcomm

Klein Gilhousen will present the story of his involvement as cofounder in the startup of Qualcomm, Inc., a dominant wireless telecommunications company that is the largest fabless chip supplier in the world. Among his other accomplishments, he invented a novel approach to increase the capacity of spread-spectrum code division multiple access (CDMA) techniques for application to both cellular telephone and mobile satellite communications. Dr. Gilhousen oversees systems engineering for all of Qualcomm's programs, is on the College of Engineering Advisory Board of Montana State University, and is a Fellow of the IEEE.
