History of Computers and Communications

George's talk will be followed by a tour of the American Computer Museum

George Keremedjiev

George Keremedjiev, who is the founder and curator of the American Computer Museum located here in Bozeman MT, will give a talk on the history of computers and communications. The talk will be augmented by George providing several historic artifacts not normally on display in the museum. This talk will kick off our new IEEE meeting location, which will now be at the American Computer Museum.
