

Mini-Symposium on EMC Power Inverter/Motor Design, Computer Modeling and Radiated Immunity/Cosite Interference

Brought to you by:

In Cooperation With The

Santa Clara Valley Section of the IEEE

WELCOME!

Thank you for attending this special two-day mini-Symposium and exhibition brought to you by the Santa Clara Valley chapter of the IEEE Electromagnetic Compatibility Society.

We hope you enjoy the top-notch speakers and topics being presented on Thursday and Friday. Our speakers include experts in the IEEE communities. The goal of this two-day regional event is to bring technical education to IEEE members who do not have the opportunity to attend the annual international symposium on EMC. Quite often, travel costs and time away from the office prohibit engineers from attending these large, weeklong, conferences. Our hope is that over the next two days you will learn practical information that you can use on the job, on Monday. On Thursday, we hope you will meet the speakers, as well as the exhibitors, and be able to informally exchange information, all the while building your knowledge base.

Special THANK YOUS are due to those who made this event a big success, including all the vendors, companies, individuals, all volunteers and officers.

Please plan on staying for the reception with the speakers following the technical presentations. There will be heavy hors d'oeuvres served, non alcoholic drinks, a cash bar, and several raffles (see the ad in this booklet for details on how to win)!! Why not wait out the traffic and stay a while to enjoy the food and drink? Enjoy the mini-Symposium and exhibition!
