

IEEE Miami Section Report to
IEEE Region 3 Meeting & IEEE Florida Council Meeting
March 31, 2006
Memphis, Tennessee

Accomplishments and Activities

1. The section submitted all of its annual reports (officer, meetings and financial) to IEEE headquarters before the February 20, 2006 early deadline.
2. The section is continuing its activities in the form of technical meetings, administrative activities as well as community relations. Nine technical meetings by the section and various chapters, and two social activities (Section and Students) were conducted since last December 2005.
3. The section conducted the 2006 Future City Competition for the State of Florida on January 28, 2006. St. John Neumann School was the Winner and represented the State at National Finals in Washington, DC. Participating schools were from all over the State of Florida but the winner was from Miami. The Miami Section has hosted this event over the past six years. This is an important activity for the future of our profession.
4. The section is participating as a supporter to several minority school programs which are funded by the department of education through the multi- year Gear-up Program to help young school kids from poor areas seek science and engineering field. Section members give lectures and presentation, classroom activities and projects as well as mentoring.
5. The FIU student branch is participating in Southeastcon'06. The Student branch at UM is also active and reported several activities. We are also initiating a student branch at Miami Dade College.
6. The section is co-sponsoring the IEEE/CEFC conference, April 30-May 3, 2006. This is one of the main conferences of the Magnetics Society.
7. The section also participated in the organization of the annual conference of the Applied Computational Electromagnetic Society (ACES 2006) which was held in Miami, March 12-16, 2006.
8. Our PACE representative attended the PACE conference in St. Louis.
9. Many other technical and social activities have been planned for the next several months.

The section will continue to be very active and will participate in many activities that benefit the members and enhance our interaction with the community. We will also continue to seek organizing conferences that will benefit our members and our profession.

Respectfully Submitted;
Osama Mohammed
