Poster of the event

The quiz was conducted on a platform called the QUIZIZZ app. Before the quiz, participants were given a few instructions.
The rules and instructions of the quiz are as follows:
- Participants must download the QUIZIZZ app and sign in with their email.
- The code will be shared with the participants and then the quiz begins. Participants will have to enter the code and attempt the quiz.
- Round 1 contains MCQs based on the theory of basic programming languages. This round consists of 20 questions with time allotted as 20 secs for each question.
- Round 2 contains MCQs based on debugging or predicting the output of codes. This round consists of 20 questions with time allotted as 30 secs for each question.
- Participants with 40% or more accuracy in the first round will be qualified for the second round.

The contest's first-round started at 6 pm on 31st January 2022, the code was shared with the participants and round 1 of the quiz was monitored by the organizers. All the participants took part in round 1. After the completion of round 1, a few participants qualified for the final round. The qualified participants were further instructed to attend round 2 on the same platform the very next day at 6 pm.

Leaderboard of Round 1

There were 34 qualifiers for the final round. Round 2 was conducted on the same platform. All the student organizers were available to the participants during the quiz for any help. Round 2 was completed successfully. After the analysis of the scores and based on the performance of the participants, the winners were announced and heartily congratulated.

Winners of the quiz

The event was concluded by wishing the participants good luck for their careers. This event was a huge success with great participation. The credit also goes to Dr. D. Hari Krishna IEEE MVSR SB Counselor and IEEE MVSR WIE Affinity Group Advisor Mrs. Vijaya Vahini for great support and guidance.
