

IEEE Nuclear and Plasma Sciences Society Nomination for the Medical Imaging Scientist Award

DEADLINE: Nominations must be received by July 19, 2002

DESCRIPTION:

This award is given to an individual in recognition of outstanding contributions to the field of medical imaging science. The prize, consisting of $2,000 and a plaque, is awarded in even-numbered years at the IEEE Medical Imaging Conference.

In selecting the recipient of this award, primary consideration will be given to nominees who have made significant innovations in the field of medical imaging science. Other factors include a nominee's overall research contribution and his/her influence on medical imaging science through education.

There are no specific eligibility requirements for this award; however, where nominees have otherwise equal qualifications, preference will be given to the nominee who is a member of IEEE.

INSTRUCTIONS:

Nomination packets should be submitted to:

Margaret Daube-Witherspoon, Ph.D.
